Announce Honor Roll For Third Six Weeks

Eighteen Place Names on Orange and Black Scholarship Honor List

Eighteen senior high and junior high pupils got their names on the Honor Roll for excellent scholarship during the last six weeks of the first semester. Many of these received honors for the entire semester. To receive honor standing means that one gets A or B in the four principal studies of high school and in all studies in the grades except drawing, music, and physical training. This means that a grade above 87 per cent has been received in all such studies.

Six Weeks Honor Roll

First Grade—Dorothy Jean Pilgrim, Day Welterlen.

Second Grade—Richard Minkler, Dwight Newman.

Third Grade—Keith Gifford, Betty Lou Welterlen.

Fourth Grade—Lorna Densmore.

Fifth Grade—Virginia Boehm, Genevieve Putz, Hugh Fraser.

Sixth Grade—Esther Thurn, Robert Arthur, George Perrinjaquet.

Seventh Grade—Eugene Gifford.

Ninth Grade—Elinor Chapman, Helen Culbertson, Delores Putz, Gayle Rizer.

Tenth Grade—Catherine Densmore, Jack Densmore, Eva Fairweather, Dorothy Minkler, Irene McCallum.

Eleventh Grade—Lucile Gray, Helen Hanson, Helen Smith, Jerome Newman, Edna Thurn, Evelyn Wooldridge, Virgil Gray, Nina Foster.

Make Preparations to Welcome Eighth Graders

Eighth graders from the townships surrounding Edgewood will be the guests of the school next Thursday and Friday, Feb. 7 and 8, while taking their winter examinations. The questions will be sent out by the County Superintendent, Miss Mary Meyer, and will be given under the direction of Supt. Gardner.

Edgewood has gained a reputation for making welcome the rural pupils coming to its school. Everything possible will be done to make those

Home Economics Girls Make Hot Lunch Record

With the coming of cold weather, hot lunch has been the best patronized in a number of years. Organized so that members from both the 9th and 10th home economics classes work in weekly shifts, the girls at times have been pushed by a flood of pupils demanding hot lunch on blizzardy days.

Fifty-nine customers probably set the record for all times on January 25, a real wintry day. In addition the six girls serving also paid for their meals. Macaroni and cheese with cocoa, costing a total of five cents was served at that time. The number of lunchers greatly exceeds those of last year. Thirty-four is the average this year while last year there were less than fifteen.

Work Organized

Plans have been made that will carry the work forward during the rest of the hot lunch season.

The two classes have been divided into two groups of four consisting of one sophomore and three freshmen, each group serving for one week. The sophomore girl is the supervisor and consequently has the following duties: Take care of money, do the shopping see that bills are paid, take money and tickets, post the menu on bulle-

"Miss Frances," One Act Comedy To Feature Annual Concert

In just two weeks, Tuesday, Feb. 19, the Girls Glee Club will present their concert built around the operetta "Lady Frances," as a result of months practice.

Pupils and faculty have been wondering about the peculiar noises and beautiful music emerging from the glee club practice room and music room and wondering what it was all about. The girls have now informed them that they are rapidly putting the finishing touches on their operetta and will have it ready for the public on the date announced.

The theme of the operetta is college life. A sorority, priding itself upon the grand social whirl it leads, is minus a cook, and oh what a time they have finding one! Bridget O'Harrigan (Eva Robinson) and Lady Frances (Delores Putz) are the principal characters. The minor parts are taken by other members of the glee club.

Practice Solos

Solos, duets and other musical numbers will feature the rest of the program. Under the instruction of Mrs. Carlson, the girls are developing some unusually good voices and without doubt the community will turn out to hear them.

The glee club will appear in the club costume and special dresses will be worn in the operetta.

Win Two Exciting Ball Games From Arlington

Edgewood won its first doubleheader basketball game at home in two years when it defeated Arlington last Friday in two hotly contested games.

In the girls game, Edgewood was out in front during almost the entire game, but the visitors drew up close during the last few minutes with a final score 11 to 10.

In the boys' game, Edgewood retained the lead until the final minutes of play when Arlington tied the score 11 to 11.

In the first overtime period Edge-

Woolen dresses, made by the sophomore girls, were graded at the end of the first semester by the sophomore sewing class. They found it very difficult because of the similarity of workmanship. The appearance of the finished garment was given twice as much credit as workmanship.

It took longer to make these dresses than was planned because of the shortened periods, 90 minutes are used three times a week and 70 minutes on music days.

Return to Cooking

With the clothing units completed, the sophomore girls have turned their attention to cooking. They are now preparing individual dishes. The new equipment makes the work possible. Heretofore there have not been enough utensils to go around. When the girls have had more experience, they will plan and serve complete meals.

Win Prizes at Institute

Jellies, canned by the Home Economics club were taken to the Farmers Institute, held before Christmas, and a first and two seconds were won. Lillie Thurn won first prize on apple jelly and Julia Todd a second. Maxine Baker won second prize for plum jelly. The money gained by this enterprise was given to the Home Economics club.

TO COMPETE IN COUNTY CONTEST

Three Edgewood High pupils and the Girls' Glee Club have been entered in the Clayton County Musical Contest to be held at Elkader on March 9 under the auspices of the Clayton County High School Activities Association.

Delores Putz will compete with a clarinet solo, Herman Lewis will give a tuba solo, and Jerome Newman will render a violin number. The Edgewood girls' organization will appear in their school costumes with a number of selections, two of which are those used in the State Contest and the third of their own choosing.

"While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night" and "Cradle Song" by Brahms are the test pieces required of the girls glee club. So far the girls have not had a chance to practice on these because the announcement of the rules of the contest just arrived. They have been sent for by Mrs. Carlson and should arrive soon.

The Edgewood girls have been looking forward to attending a contest for almost a year and with their development under the direction of their capable directress should represent the school and community well.

U. I. U. ORCHESTRA MAY COME

A real treat is expected by Edgewood pupils if arrangements are completed to have an orchestra concert here given by the Upper Iowa University orchestra.

While arrangements for the concert have not been completed, should the group come, it would be under the direction of Pauline Peick, E. H. S. class of 1926. Gayle Peick also plays in the organization.

Special attractions would be trumpet solos by Prof. Galen Myrick, head of the instrumental music department and vocal solos by Honorine Otley. Miss Otley entered the audition contest sponsored by the Atwater Kent company a short time ago and after strenuous competition won first in the state of Iowa. Later she went to Chicago to compete in the national contest.

ENTER COUNTY MUSICAL

Herman Lewis and Jerome Newman heve been entered in the subdistrict musical contest sponsored by the Iowa State Musical Association. The contest takes place at Oelwein on March 15. The Edgewood representatives will play solos on the tuba and violin, respectively.

The musical association was formed with the purpose of forwarding musical education in Iowa high schools. The state is divided into six districts, Edgewood being in the Northeast District. The winners at Oelwein go to the district contest, the place having not yet been learned. From there they go to the State Festival at Iowa City to be held in April under the direction of the State University of Iowa.

Contests are held in instrumental solos, vocal solos, orchestra and band selections, and chamber music. Only high schools are eligible for membership in the association. All schools are entered in the same class in all events except glee clubs, orchestras, and bands, where they are divided into three classes according to the enrollment in the high school. Edgewood, having an enrollment of less than 150, is in Class C.

This makes the second year that Edgewood will have been represented in a state music association contest, Jerome Newman having competed at Monticello last year.—By E. T.

RECEIVE LETTERS FROM ALASKA

Letters, written by children from Alaska were received by pupils of Miss Doty's room.

Minna Hanson, their teacher is spending a year in the government school at White Mountain, Alaska. She used to teach in the school at Wyoming, Iowa with Miss Doty's aunt. At that time Mr. Gardner was superintendent of the school there. The two teachers visited Miss Doty here, last September.

Miss Hanson is teaching eighth grade work. In November the thermometer was 24 degrees below zero and they are used to weather 50 degrees below zero. Now they are ice bound and mail comes by dog sled through Canada, but only letters, medicine and eye glasses are carried. During the warmer months the mail arrives by boat.

Miss Hanson's pupils wrote letters to Miss Doty's third and fourth grade pupils and they wrote back to them

One of the letters selected from the group, follows. It is in the exact words as written by this Eskimo girl:

Dear Friends of Iowa:

Miss Hanson told us to write to you children and tell you how we live in Alaska. She said she have taught you children before.

At home my food besides bread, rice, etc. I mean besides white man's foods are reindeer meat, fishes, all kinds of ducks, berries (roots) nearly like potatoes caribou meat, mountain sleep, whale meat, ptarmigans I can't think of any more. Oh! ice cream. I eat candies since I was little girls. I like them as well as you do and cannot go without them in one month.

In White Mountains we had some movies, dances and basketball.

One of my relatives is here in school too her name is Edna Driggs, her and I are captains in basket ball teams. She very stout girl, weighs about one hundred seventy or sixty. I only weigh 155. We are the heaviest ones in school I guess. One time when we played basket ball she was going to throw ball and I was going to guard her she hit me right in my eye with her strong hands and give me one black eye. We sure have funs around here too. All the white teachers here, we like them, all they work hard to teach us. Miss Hanson gives music lessons every single day, I guess. If I was her I would get tired already. You know she have no time to do anything for herself, that is why she let us write to you children and I wish you appreciate our letters.

Excuse me for all kinds of my mistakes, but you know I can't help it. I hope you like our letters. So close now, with my regards and wishes to you all. Wish to hear and tell us about your place.

I am your Eskimo friend,
H. S. Ethel Smith.

ECHOES FROM THE GRADES

(By L. Coolidge)

After studying "The Three Bears," the first grade pupils made booklets containing cut-out pictures illustrating the three bears, Goldilocks, and other things in the story. Snow scenes, and snow men torn from paper are also interesting features, and letters cut free-hand, spelling the word, "January" have also been made. In addition to this, the story of "Little Black Sambo" is forming the theme of a booklet being made by the second graders.

The first grade pupils have an interesting way of recording their spelling grades. They have made a number of clowns, and when anyone receives one hundred percent in the week's spelling words, he is entitled to put a gold button on his clown.

When he has put on six buttons, the grade of 100 percent goes on his report card.

Pupils of the third and fourth grades recently finished an Indian project. English, geography, reading and art were centered around Indian life. Betty Lou Welterlen brought an Indian doll and some Indian arrow heads to school, the two classes together made several posters, the pupils searching magazines for pictures of Indian life.

Paper hyacinths and flower pots were cut out by the fourth graders. The scholars became so much interested in flowers that each one brought two cents with which to purchase some bulbs.

An aquarium, recently added to the equipment of the room, contains snails, fish and plant taken from the other school aquariums.

Intermediate Room

Because of semester examinations, only a little art work has been done in the fifth and sixth grades. However, geography study of foreigners has resulted in the making of pictures of foreign children. Cut-outs of hyacinths have also been made.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE LOG CABIN

When February rolls around, it is time to think of the birthdays of our great Civil War president, Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln, the representative of the common people, furnishes an excellent example for the American boy or girl of today.

What pupil does not remember how the poor, untutored but self-educated "rail-splitter" braved Douglas the polished orator in that memorable debate at Freeport and in spite of his homely phrases won? He believed in the maxim, "Speak so plainly that the lowest may understand and the rest will have no trouble." Even today this is advisable.

Lincoln possessed a wonderful personality and a sense of humor which buoyed him up during times of political strife and war. The students of Lincoln would do well to read Churchill's "The Crisis," a story of the Civil War. It deals with the personality of Lincoln and one gets to know the man.

That America is a nation where the common people rule is proven by Lincoln's record as well as that of our newly nominated president, Herbert Hoover as well as Garfield and others.

When we turn the calendar to Feb. 12, let us think of Lincoln as one rose from a log cabin to the highest position America has to offer, the presidency of the United States. E.T.

CLARA COCKING BURK WRITES

(By Helen Hanson)

Clara Cocking Burk, who graduated from Edgewood High School in 1921, and who is now living in Cambridge, Mass., writes the following to Woodland Echoes:

"It has been a great pleasure to me to have the opportunity to spend some time here, for the things about which we have read and studied in our history and literature mean a great deal more to us after we see the actual scenes.

I have had the privilege of driving to Concord and Lexington where I saw the scene of the battle. Leading down the river is an avenue bordered by tall and stately pines. On this side of the river is a monument marking the spot where the British stood. Do you remember the poem which contains the stanza:

"By the rude bridge that the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
There once the embattled farmers stood,
And fired the shot heard round the world."

That stanza is inscribed on the monument. We walked across that arched bridge, and on the opposite side is the statue of the minute man, carrying his gun and powder horn and leaning on his plow. That statue marks the spot where the Americans stood. Every detail is so perfect that the statue seems almost life-like.

Students of history will also be interested in Christ Church, known as "Old North Church" where services are held every Sunday and where visitors may climb to the tower of where Paul Revere's lantern was hung.

If you have studied American literature, you will be especially interested in some of the other places which were of interest to me. Did you ever picture Hawthorne's "Old Manse" as being situated next to the Concord and Lexington battle ground? That was a surprise to me. The "Old Manse" is a huge rambling place, very much dilapidated and quite different now from what it must have been when Hawthorne took his bride there. Most of the homes are open to visitors but that one is not.

Just outside Lexington is the quaint little cottage which was the home of Louisa M. Alcott. One can see the tiny old-fashioned room where she wrote "Little Women." There are beautiful woods directly behind the house. Situated also behind the house and in the yard is the old-fashioned wooden building where Emerson, Thoreau, and the rest of the Transcendentalists held their meetings.

My home here in Cambridge is just a short distance from Longfellow's home, which is a lovely old mansion painted yellow and white. His daughter Alice still lives there. You remember "Grave Alice and laughing Allegra?" The grounds known as Longfellow Park, are beautiful and extend an entire block in front of the house down to the Charles River.

Perhaps you will be interested, too, in hearing about the Shakespearean play, "Much Ado About Nothing," which I recently saw. It was a splendid production, and every actor an artist. I wondered what Shakespeare would think of the gorgeous settings and costumes in present day productions. There were nine different settings, all very artistic and beautiful. The costumes were of brilliant colors in luxurious silks and velvets. There was lovely orchestra music, as well as guitars among the players on the stage.

I saw also not long ago the musical comedy of Mark Twain's story, "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

(Alice Longfellow has died since this letter was written).

MR. HARDEN ENTERTAINS

Mr. Harden was host at a faculty party given January 25th at the F. H. Stalnaker residence. The refreshments were ham sandwiches, pickles, chocolate cake, and fruit salad with whipped cream.

The entertainment consisted of the game of "five hundred" played at three tables. After hot competition between Miss Clifton and Mr. Gardner, Miss Clifton with the aid of Mr. Harden, won the prize, a bath towel with two wash clothes and Miss Doty won the consolation prize, a jack-in-the-box. The teachers reported a very enjoyable time.

Mrs. Gardner, and son, Franklin, and Frank Smith were other guests.

The climax of the excitement was reached at the beginning of the party when Mrs. Smith upset as a rocking chair collapsed under her.

SWORDES JUDGES AT GREELEY

Accepting an invitation to be the critic judge of the Greeley high school home declamatory contest, Miss Ardis Swordes went on the train to the nearby but snow-blocked town on Jan. 16. Miss Swordes reported an interesting contest with a great deal of competition.

In 1843 the public debt of the United States was $32,700,000.

TO HOLD SPELLING CONTEST

Spelling classes in the seventh and eighth grades had a spelling contest which lasted throughout the first semester. The seventh grade won, entitling it to a party furnished by the losing eighth graders.

This semester the junior high classes are holding another series of contests to select a representative to go to Elkader for the county contest at Elkader, sponsored by the Des Moines Register. The victorious county contestant will go to Des Moines for the State Spelling Bee and the state winner will compete at Washington, D. C. The expenses of the county winners are taken care of when they go to Des Moines as are also those of the state winners.

FIRE! FIRE!

The physics class was recently vastly amused as well as frightened when during a demonstration, Mr. Gardner leaned against a table having a burning alcohol lamp on it. For some unknown reason the back of his coat caught on fire. He suddenly jumped and then danced around trying to reach the onflagration. Howard Scovel sprang to his feet and slapped his instructor on the back, putting out the fire.

Choking and coughing from fumes coming from the home economics kitchen, students in the assembly on Jan. 25 wondered what it was all about. Pancakes were being baked by a class in cooking.

CLIFTON GOES TO S. U. I.

Miss Maude Clifton, social science teacher of Edgewood High School, attended the institute for history teachers at the State University of Iowa at Iowa City Friday and Saturday of last week.

The University of Iowa sponsors a number of such meetings for teachers in special subjects. Experts of the university, from the public schools of Iowa and surrounding states, and from the great universities appear on the program and give suggestions through lectures, demonstrations, and discussions on subjects in their fields. As a rule the institutes are well attended and teachers return to their work refreshed and enthusiastic.

MRS. WAGGONER GIVES TREAT

Mrs. Ralph Waggoner treated the pupils of the lower four grades with candied popcorn and chocolate cake the day Omafaye and Niel quit school previous to moving away. It was a total surprise to all the students. The affair was not only a farewell but also celebrated the birthdays of the two children. The family has moved to Fennimore, Wisconsin.

END "WASH-UP" CAMPAIGN

"Health and Wash-up" was the name of a campaign conducted in the third grade and brought to a close last week.

The following pupils each received four gold stars for keeping all the health rules: Jack Barnes, Keith Gifford, Robert Dean Jones, Betty Lou Welterlen, Bernice Andrews and Thomas Scully.

ATHLETIC NEWS

BOYS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Edgewood's inexperienced boys basketball team, fighting gallantly throughout its games, in most cases against experienced teams from larger schools, has lost more games than it has won. So far six have been lost and three won, giving a percentage of .333.

The season's record so far reads as follows:

Edgewood 11; Elkport 15.
Edgewood 17, Elkader 19.
Edgewood 17, Strawberry Pt. 19.
Edgewood 24, Greeley 14.
Edgewood 14; Manchester 15.
Edgewood 27; Arlington 12.
Edgewood 17; Lamont 31.
Edgewood 13; Strawberry Pt. 29.
Edgewood 15; Arlington 13.

Three of the games were very closely played, namely the Elkport, Elkader and Manchester games, being lost by 4, 2 and 1 points respectively. To the Edgewood spectators it seemed as if the local boys outplayed the opponents but lack of foul shooting early in the season and failure in the field department held down the Orange and Black scores.

Three games remain to be played aside from those of the state and county tournaments, they being Lamont this week, Elkader next week, and Manchester here the first Monday in March.

Every game has found Edgewood either ahead of, tied with, or closely following the other teams at half time, but in several cases their going was not equal to that of the opposing fives in the last half.

GIRLS IMPROVE GAME

Showing gradual ability to fight throughout the game, and making it hotter each game for the opponents, the Orange and Black girls' team has won two contests out of eight, making a percentage of 225. The Lamont and Manchester return games remain to be played.

The games won and lost stand:

Edgewood 11; Elkport 15.
Edgewood 27; Greeley 44.
Edgewood 18; Strawberry Pt. 32.
Edgewood 23. Strawberry Pt. 37.
Edgewood 18; Arlington 13.
Edgewood 15; Lamont 24.
Edgewood 17; Manchester 39.
Edgewood 11; Arlington 10.

So far, the girls have made the best showing in several years. Last year one game was taken from Strawberry Point; two years ago the weak Delaware team was defeated and a unexperienced team from Epworth. The two victories over the fast Arlington team represent the best wins turned in by the girls during the past three years. In most cases scores have been kept lower and in the Elkport and Lamont games the girls were ahead at half time.

As in the case of the boys, Edgewood has generally had its share of shots at the basket but many have been missed. Foul shooting has improved a great deal in recent games.

SR. GIRLS LEAD IN TOURNEY

Surviving numerous strenuous battles in the girls' basketball interclass tournament, the seniors are now in the lead with three games won and none lost. In the first game, the twelfth grade defeated the combined seventh and eighth grade team. The second game was taken by the tenth grade which downed the eleventh in a rough contest in which Helen Smith hurt her knee. The ninth graders then played the twelfth and lost. Last Thursday the seniors won from the eleventh grade, holding them to one point in spite of the fact that several members of that team are on the varsity. The two surviving teams are the tenth and twelfth.

Captains of the teams are Charlotte Stone, seniors; Edna Thurn, juniors; Alberta Schultz, sophomores; Gayle Rizer, freshman; and Ramona Glazier, seventh and eighth grades.

COACH PRACTICES FOOTBALL

The evening of the Lamont games several spectators were heard to remark that Mr. Harden's football activities in his younger days must have done him some good. A large drift of snow had accumulated in front of the school house due to the heavy snows. Mr. Harden came running down the walk and took a cross cut over the road. When he had reached the drift he made an unusual flying tackle for some invisible object and emerged looking like an Eskimo. Some say he practices this tackle to keep in trim but we think if he practices it often he'll be deformed.—H. K.

GIRLS MAY ATTEND TOURNEY

This year's Edgewood girls' basketball team may get a trip to the state sectional girls basketball tournament. Mr. Gardner, their coach, made them a promise that if they won three games they would get the trip. So far they have won two games, both of them from Arlington. Should they win the Lamont game here Friday, the trick would be turned.

If things go right, the Edgewood girls should win from Lamont this week. During the first half at Lamont they out-pointed and out-fought the Lamont sextet. With Putz at forward and the Smith at side center, perhaps the strongest combination of the year is being displayed by the Edgewood Orange and Black representatives of girls athletics.

If enough schools from this part of the state enter the tournament, it would be held at Lamont.

VOLLEY BECOMES POPULAR

Volley ball, the winter sport of alumni and business men, is growing in its drawing power. Twice a week, on Monday and Thursday, after high school basketball practice, from a dozen to twenty men appear on the gymnasium floor and indulge in the strenuous game.

So far the men have defeated two teams, Elkader and Arlington, having won from the Arlington young men but being defeated by the same evening by the "old men." In the Arlington game, different lineups were used, two entirely different teams getting into play for each town.

Having the townspeople use the school house for useful purposes a great deal is encouraged in many communities where an effort is made to make it a community center. Little additional expense to the district is made while great returns in the shape of recreation and education are received, it is claimed.

MIDGETS LEAD THE WAY

Outweighed, out-reached but not out-fought, the Edgewood midget team has set a perfect example of basketball winning with a percentage of 100 per cent made in two games with Strawberry Point and one with Elkader. The return game with the county seat is to be played Feb. 15.

The popular Midget team became more popular last Tuesday when the husky Strawberry Point Junior High squad was met and defeated. It was a contest full of thrills and excitement. A lot of fight was shown by both teams but more than ever before by the local Midgets. The lead changed several times during the battle. Near the end of the game Bishop so far Edgewood's main stay, was eliminated on personal fouls. Strawberry Point was happy and Edgewood downcast. With the score 8 to 8 at the end of the regular periods, Strawberry Point went into the lead during the overtime period with a field goal making it 10 to 8. Then in rapid succession McCallum and Francis Arthur tossed field goals just as the whistle blew, making the victory 12 to 10.

Everyone considered the victory a great one inasmuch as sheer determination and accomplished what was done.

ALUMNUS MAKES TEAM

It was seen in the Upper Iowa Collegian that Gayle Peick is playing guard on the freshman team. They defeated the Juniors 18 to 9 in the opening game of the class tournament. It will be remembered that Gayle played guard on last year's powerful basket ball team.

Elizabeth Ashline entered the second grade after the Christmas holidays. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Ashline. She formerly attended the Elk Center school. Elizabeth says she likes to go to school at Edgewood.

tin board, see that everything runs smoothly.

Frosh Plans Menus

Menus are planned by the freshmen girls. In doing so they intend each week to serve two soups, a vegetable dish, and one protein dish.

The girls report that the lunches for the next three weeks have been worked out. Group V has charge of the enterprise for the first week in February. Those in the group are Ilo Bushaw, supervisor, Helen Culbertson, Genevieve O'Neal, Genevieve Lighty. The dishes will be as follows:

Mon.—Creamed eggs in toast.
Tues.—Bean soup.
Wed.—Spaghetti and tomatoes.
Thurs.—Beef stew with vegetables.
Fri.—Mashed potatoes with dried beef gravy.

A group consisting of Helen Robinson, supervisor, Alberta Foster, Delores Putz, and Marian Baker will take charge next week. Their menu will be:

Mon.—Corn soup.
Tues.—Salmon loaf.
Wed.—Custard and cocoa.
Thurs.—Creamed carrots.
Fri.—Baked beans.

During the third week of February Lorraine Coolidge will be the supervisor, with Florence Ridenour, Margaret Connelly and Wilma Fisher making up the rest of the group.

The menu will be:

Mon.—Cream of potato soup.
Tues.—Salmon loaf.
Wed.—Cream of tomato soup.
Thurs.—Welch rarebit.
Fri.—Corn pudding.

Sell Tickets

Hot lunch tickets are on sale at 50 cents each. The tickets are punched each time the possessor gets hot lunch. The plan eliminates the necessity of bringing coins to school every day. The girls are testing their salesmanship by competing in the sale of tickets. The girl selling the most will receive a free ticket for herself. The organized selling campaign together with announcements in the assembly and attractive posters in the hall have had much to do with the revived interest in the noon day school lunch.

MAKE PREPARATIONS TO WELCOME EIGHTH GRADERS

taking the tests feel at home. A special room will be set aside for the pupils so that the work will not have to be done in the busy assembly room as has sometimes been done in places. The guests will be given hot lunch free of charge as an act of courtesy. The hot lunch consists of one dish served in the home economics kitchen at noon.

Students are preparing to welcome the new comers, seeing in them many of the future high school pupils.

GIVE GRADE ARITH. TEST

Members of the sixth grade recently took their first arithmetic progress test in the Searchlight arithmetic workbook. The books were just recently received.

The pupils attaining the highest ranking were:

In addition and substraction—Lyle Romig 100; Bernadine Wooldridge 100; George Perrinjaquet 92.

In multiplication and long division —Robert Arthur 94; Joseph Weil 94; Esther Thurn 94.

In addition and substraction of mixed numbers: George Perrinjaquet 95. Bernadine Wooldridge 92; Esther Thurn 88.

Addition and subtraction of fractions—Joseph Weil 95; George Perrinjaquet 95; Lye Romig 92; Bernadine Wooldridge 92; Esther Thurn 92.

The progress tests cover only the fundamentals of arithmetic but no problems. The problem scales test the ability of pupils in reasoning and the application of the fundamental processes.

Miss Freburghaus was very much pleased with the high average shown by the grade.

The Edgewood boys will attend two tournaments this year — the county Feb. 22 at Elkader and the state sectional at Oelwein, March 1.
